- Fixes problems that stop your computer from working properly. - Displays database tables to show you which PC components are optimized. - Fixes many common problems, such as the following: - Free space - Pc crashes - Incorrect file associations - Registry errors - Lost data - Unable to connect to the internet - Slow internet connections - Slow start-up time @completesnow Due to the scaling issues that Plague ColdFusion (and every similar CMS) makes it impossible to work with anything but a small website. A lot of small businesses can simply get away with it but a lot of people I see hitting this are unaware. I've just used my mobile app to take a few simple samples of what this app does and this is a very nice website that I have put together about the app. I think its very important to a lot of people to get coldfusion to work for them so I wanted to make it available to as many people as possible. In my opinion ColdFusion is a very capable platform, especially in a JavaScript context. I personally like it better than ASP.NET because of Javascript. @ssollu aye, yep, the first one im looking at but I only get scallions available. that's all I have. I'm thinking will have to order some from a grange or somewhere. so far the only place I can find them is local. I'm not much of a cook anyway and the whole chicken is flavorless anyway. @HomerCurtis thank you for your feedback. I'll definitely try that one as well. Mystery meat isn't so great, especially if you get the chicken hearts or liver. @UCSAdmin yea, I agree with you it is a very good way. I think I'd just pick up a starter pack and then move up to the next level of plans. I have enough time in tech but this is my little part time job that pays the bills, so I am trying to keep the costs down. @HomerCurtis I just need to tweak the captcha. When you try to sign up you are just saying: "I agree with everything back there, quit trying to make a fool out of me." @HomerCurtis Yep. I
